FROM THE SOUTH OF THE WORLD

Located at the southernmost end of Americas, between parallels 22 and 54, Argentina covers an area of nearly 290 million hectares – of which 170 are completely devoted to agricultural production.

Argentina is renowned throughout the world for the alluring sophistication of tango; the passion for soccer and the highest quality of the grains and beef. Due to its geographical area and wide variety of climate – this land has one of the world's richest ecosystems; an ideal place to produce high quality natural foods. This was the reason why, by the end of XIX century and the first decades of XX century, it attracted a massive flow of immigrants; Europeans, Arabs and Asians, who settled in different regions of the country; bringing with them their dreams, traditions and their production and consumption habits.

These diverse idiosyncrasies gave birth to a new culture, which after having undergone difficult problems and conflicts in now opening up to the world, now offers its most valued possession: highest quality foods.
